Drama Experience

Participation in a number of plays through university and for a couple of years afterwards including roles in Aphra Behn's The Rover, Shakespeare's As You Like It, and contemporary dramas including a one-man Howard Brenton play. As a Drama teacher, I directed several school productions by playwrights including Brecht, Beckett, Feydeau and Shakespeare, designed and performed in a successful TIE project for secondary schools and wrote a three-act comedy for the school stage.

Other Relevant Experience

Especially following an unfortunate career interruption forced on me by a road accident, I have continued to teach English and Drama on short-term contracts, and in the last few years have taught Drama at Harrow, and English at schools including Tonbridge and the City of London boys' school. I have recently provided a number of teaching resources for the Glyndebourne Education department's website.
